Beautiful Leghorn Hats Merit Special Attention

In the Millinery Section Today

This is a season of delightful developments in mid-season Hat modes and one of the latest, and most fascinating of these is the vogue for Leghorns.

A group of recent arrivals show the drooping brims in Hats of the natural yellow tint also the orchid shade, some lined with eagle braid, others in combination of leghorn and Tuscan braids, trimmed with graceful ribbon streamers, bows and bands. On certain of these, ostrich tips appear.

Tailored Sailors of Leghorn, natural with white hemp facing are yet another feature of this charming exhibit. Priced at $10.00 Third Floor.

On others come sprays of Spring and Summer flowers. Another division of Leghorn Hats takes trimmings of filmy shirrings of chiffon, organdie or nets, and poke bonnet shapes. Others are topped with navy or black taffeta and reveal the Leghorn braid only in the underbrims. Priced at $7.00 to $20.00.

THE THIN LINE OF BLUE

It was Augmented and Strengthened by the Reinforcing Curtain of Khaki.

The thin line of blue—was still thinner this year—but it had support as behind it came up the solid compact lines of khaki—the new color effect to the honored blue.

Memorial Day was celebrated this year with more than ordinary ceremony, the closing of the great war last fall adding unusual interest and effect. The big event of the day was the parade in the afternoon followed by exercises at Lake Contrary. The graves of all known soldiers in all cemeteries were decorated in the forenoon.

J. P. Emmert was grand marshal of the parade. His aides were William Sherman, Oscar Fox, Charles Baisiger, Fred Wenz and Henry Mack.

The American Legion was in uniform with Capt. Doyle Barrow as marshal, and Ray Arnold, Glen Snyder, Donald Cronkite, Harry C. Thomas, Leonard A. Guttar and Dr. W. T. Elam as aides.

The parade which was a most imposing one marched in the following order:

Platoon of police.
Band.

Sons of Veterans.
Spanish-American War Veterans.
Jack Schneider Post No. 125.

W. D. Haywood, who hopes soon to get out of the federal prison on bond, awaiting a review of his case by the United States Court of Appeals, says the I. W. W. is greatly misunderstood. We fear it is. That is the only explanation for the patience with which the American people have borne with it.—Kansas City Post.

AN INVIDIOUS COMPARISON

"It's just as wrong to gamble when you win as when you lose."
"Yes," asserted J. E. Eggeston, Dunbar. "The immorality is just as great, but the inconvenience isn't."

TOLD GREWSOME TALES

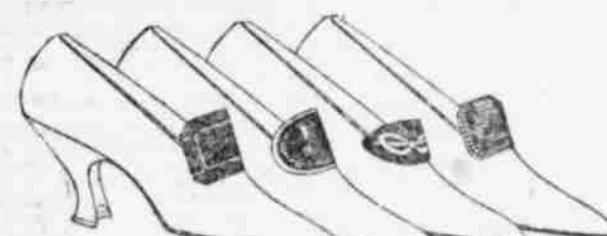

The Purported Soldier Who Enticed the People of Maysville.

A. J. ("Andrew Jackson") Hitt, who with "Bel" Buntin makes up the biggest half of the activity of Maysville, the capital of DeKalb county, was one of the attentive listeners to Col. Garrett's address at the Commerce Club luncheon Tuesday. After the address Hitt in conversation with a friend remarked:

"Col. Garrett's speech today was a little different from that of a lecturer we had at our place a short time ago. He came as a wounded soldier who had been furloughed home and what he did not tell us in the line of desperate fighting in which he participated would not fill a volume, for he told us all. Then he told us some terrible stories of German cruelty which he had witnessed even to telling us where he had seen dead infants hung on butcher hooks like you hang dead pigs. It sure was a great speech—but a short time later the fellow was arrested and it was found that he had never been across, nor never had been in the army."

The biggest failure is the man who is afraid to try.
